ComplianceWire® Data Extract

GATHER THE "RAW DATA" FROM THE SYSTEM
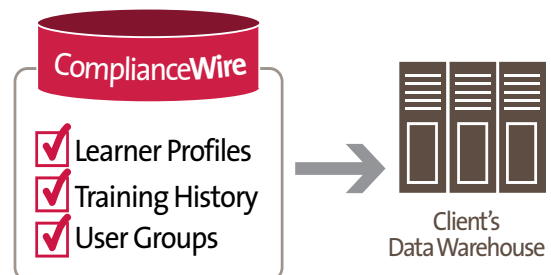

Your Data, Your Way

Clients can rely on the reporting tools available in the UL EduNeering platform, and the ComplianceWire Learning Management System (LMS), for senior management, auditors, etc. But there are times when clients need to drill down into the training activities and other data in the system, based on their own unique business or compliance goals.

For example, some clients need the "raw data" stored in ComplianceWire for these reasons:

- Advanced Analysis: clients need to run reports using third party reporting tools
- Metrics: clients need to combine ComplianceWire data with other systems to generate KPIs/advanced metrics
- Secondary Feeds: clients need to change the data before importing it into other systems
- Warehouse: clients may have a policy to import all data into their own data warehouse

Our DataExtract Service

Available for an additional fee, our DataExtract Service exports all usable data based on a schedule you define, making it available for you to download and use however you choose.

Setting Up the DataExtract Service

First, we'll define a schedule for when and how often you want the data to be imported. For example, you may prefer to import the data on a daily, weekly or monthly basis.

Next, we'll configure a Schema Update option. Each platform release or update typically effects the structure of the data (the 'data schema'). You have the option to update your DataExtract's data schema every time the platform data schema changes, or apply the update only when you specifically request it.

DataExtract Technical Description

Your IT team may be interested in understanding how the DataExtract Service functions. From an IT perspective, an 'export' of your data exists in the form of a SQL database backup file.

This export file is made available on a secure FTP site for you to manually or programmatically download at your discretion. Your DataExtract file is generated with your latest production data, according to the schedule that was set up.

UL maintains the "master" DataExtract data schema (all fields, objects and the relationships among them). We update this master data when changes are made to the ComplianceWire platform. Your DataExtract will actually be a copy of the most recent master data schema, and we'll help you configure your Schema Update to manage changes to your data schema whenever our "master" schema is updated.
